

New Product Release: C.A.R.E. Community Awareness in Reporting Emergencies

C.A.R.E. is like DARE but not just for kids – for everyone! Everyone needs to know about 9-1-1. We all need to know about our public emergency reporting system. Professional Pride Training Company, Inc. has just unveiled its' new public education kit, the C.A.R.E. Public Educator's Kit. Appropriately, C.A.R.E. stands for Community Awareness in Reporting Emergencies. This kit contains training programs for responders, government officials, disabled persons, ESL groups, high schools, junior high schools and elementary schools. This new public education program gives you ideas, games and ways to teach about 911 to each specific group. C.A.R.E. contains a CD with actual 911 calls that will inform, enlighten and teach people about what a 911 operator really faces and needs from them. This program also contains the 911 Not For Fun electronic telephone simulator with carrying case used to teach children and disabled persons how and when to dial 9-1-1. The complete C.A.R.E. program including large 3 ring binder of games, hand-outs and training materials for all age groups, as well as the call CD and telephone simulator, all for $725. or more information contact Professional Pride Training Company, Inc at 1-800-830-8228 or email Support@911Trainer.com.
